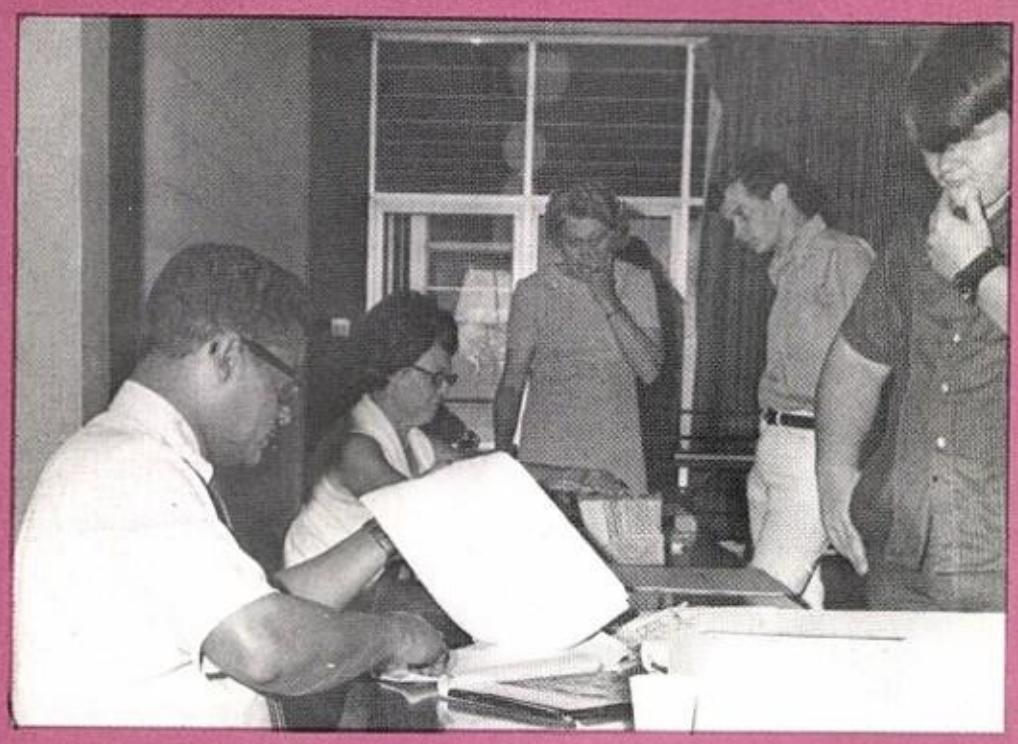
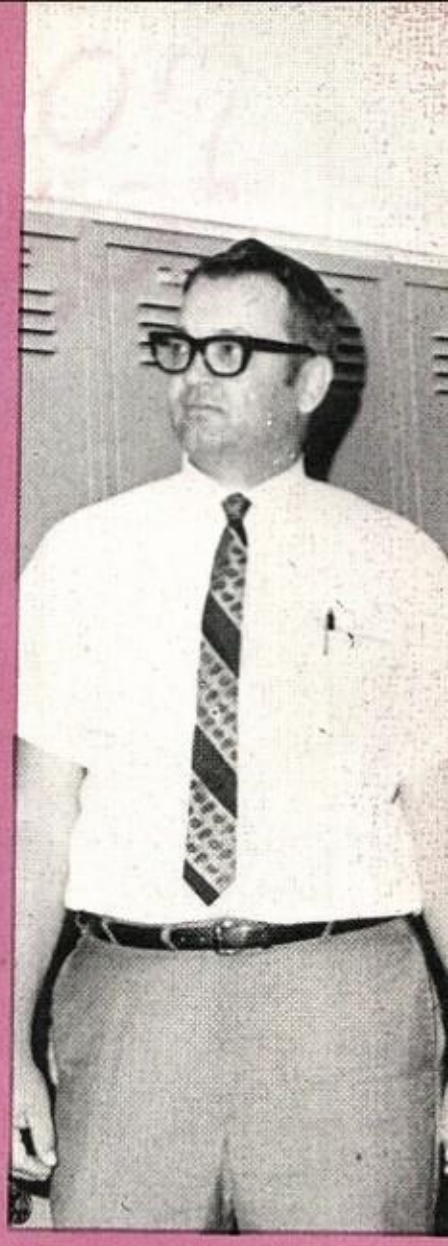
The place where you were understood, not laughed at.

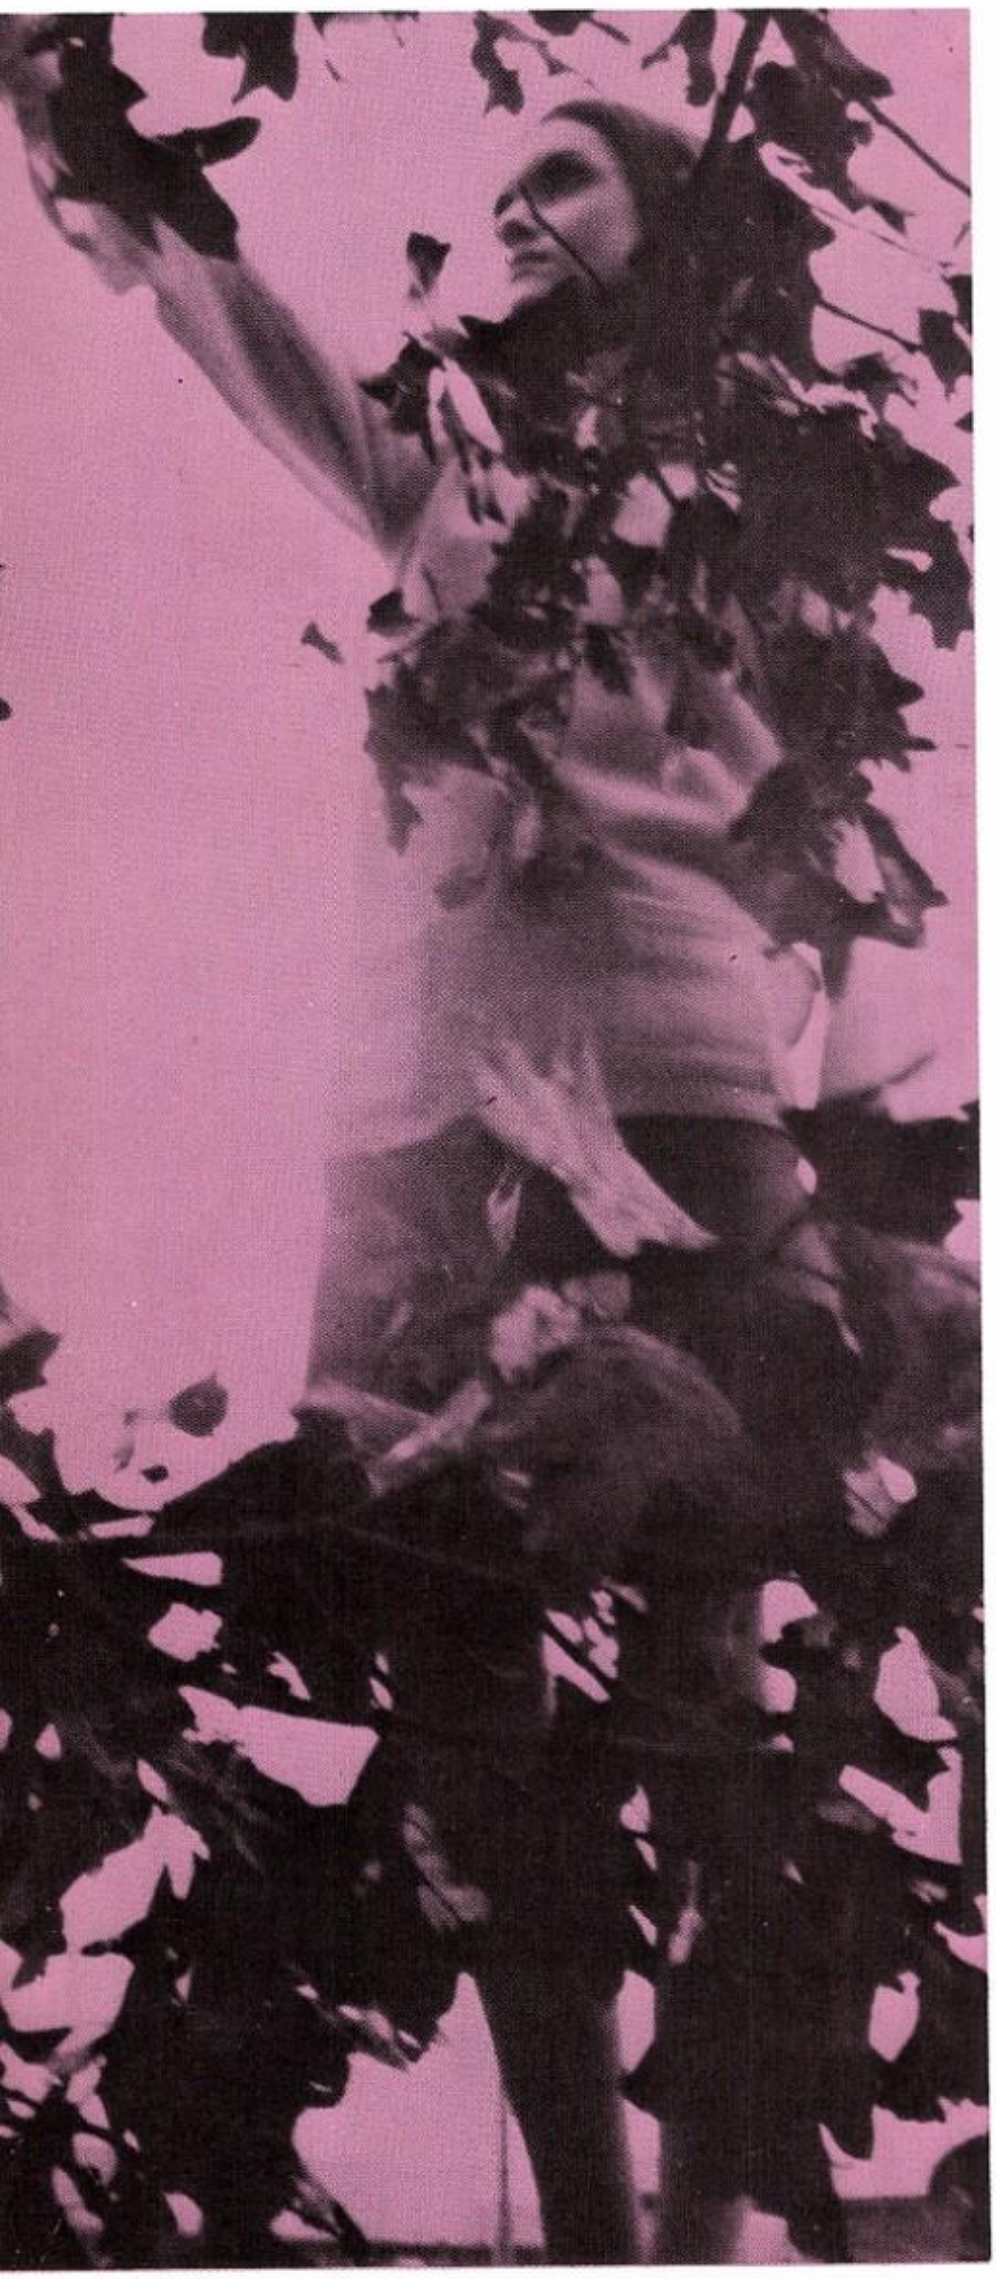


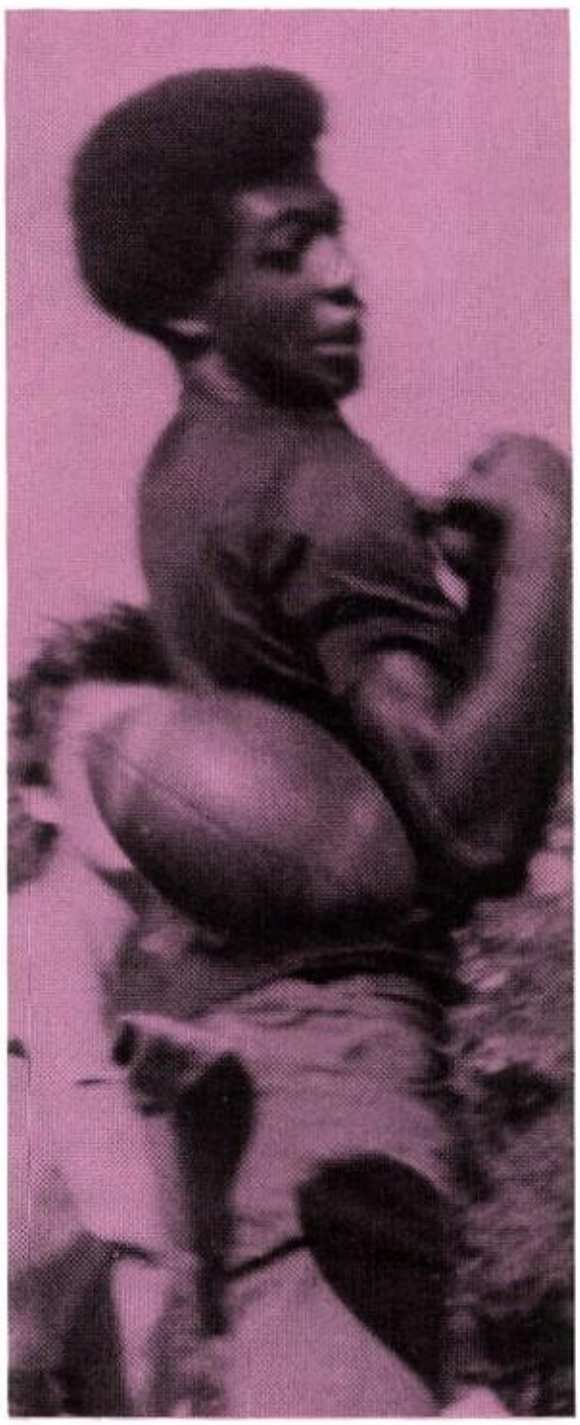


The place where anything was possible,

Even adulthood. . . .

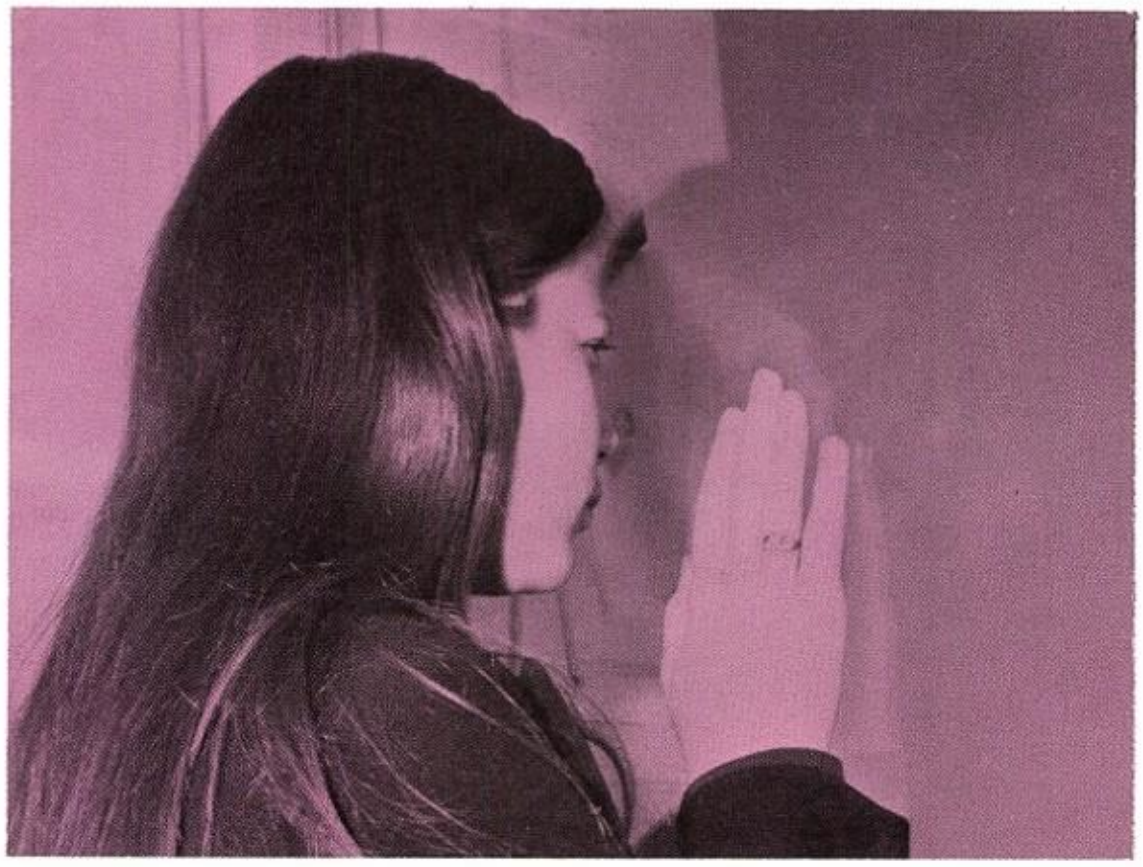
The place where you reached out and touched reality. . .

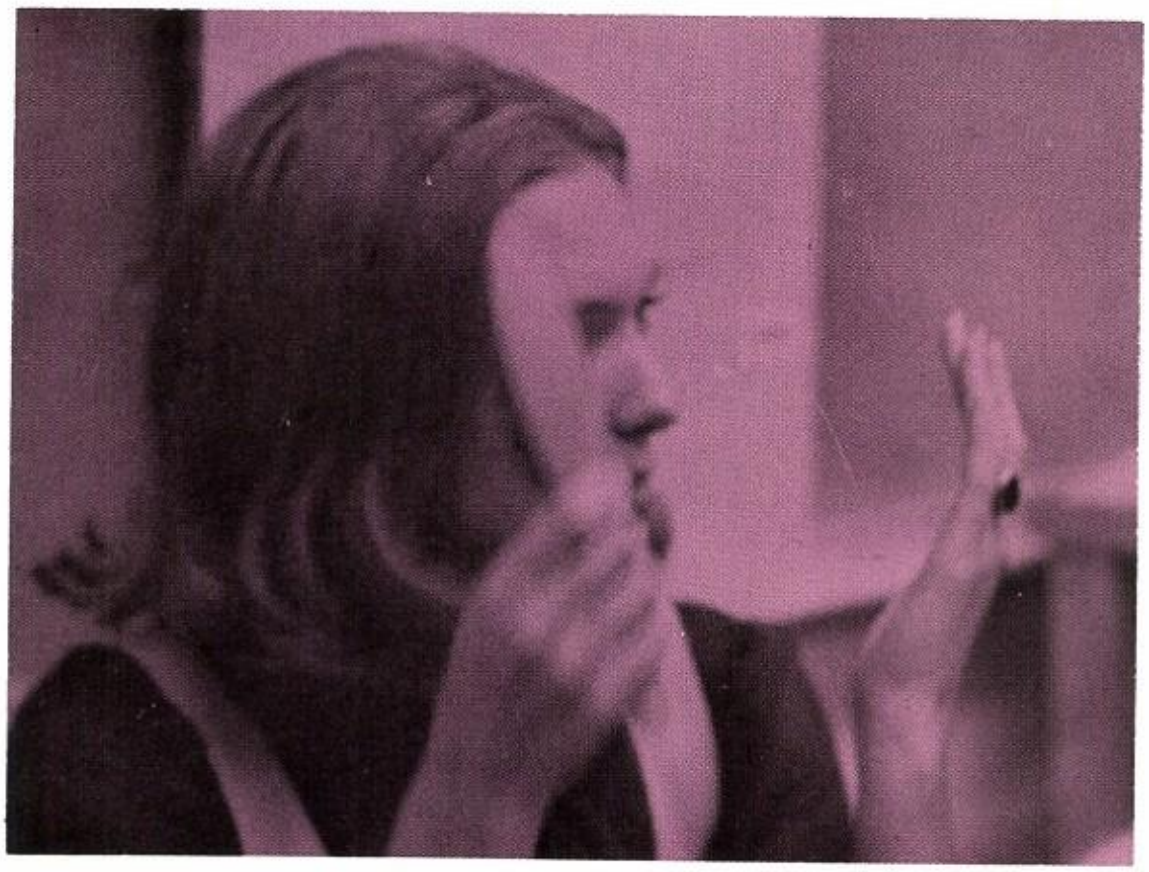




And it turned, and smiled warmly at you.

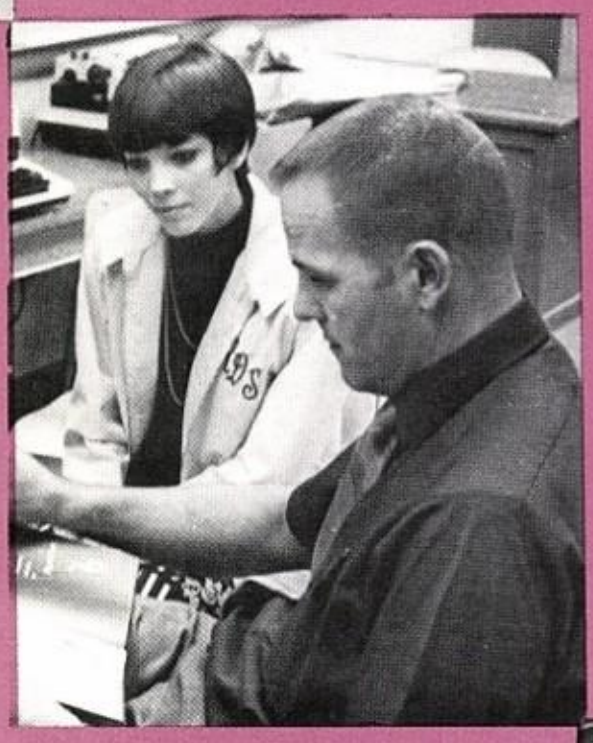
The place where there was no ugliness,

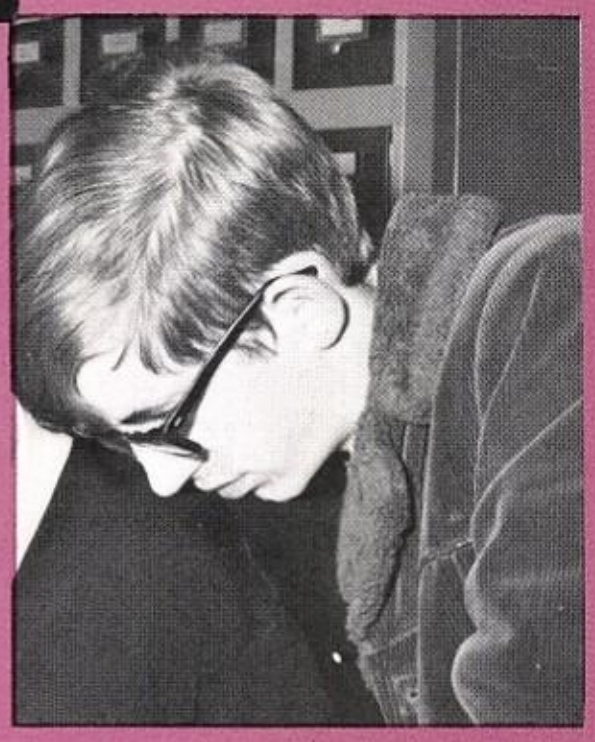




All was beautiful.

Never let it be said differently,





These truths that you have read. . .

Because looking back through the Tunnel of Time,

You will remember Metropolitan as

. . . THE PLACE.

ADMINISTRATION

Parson Heads School District

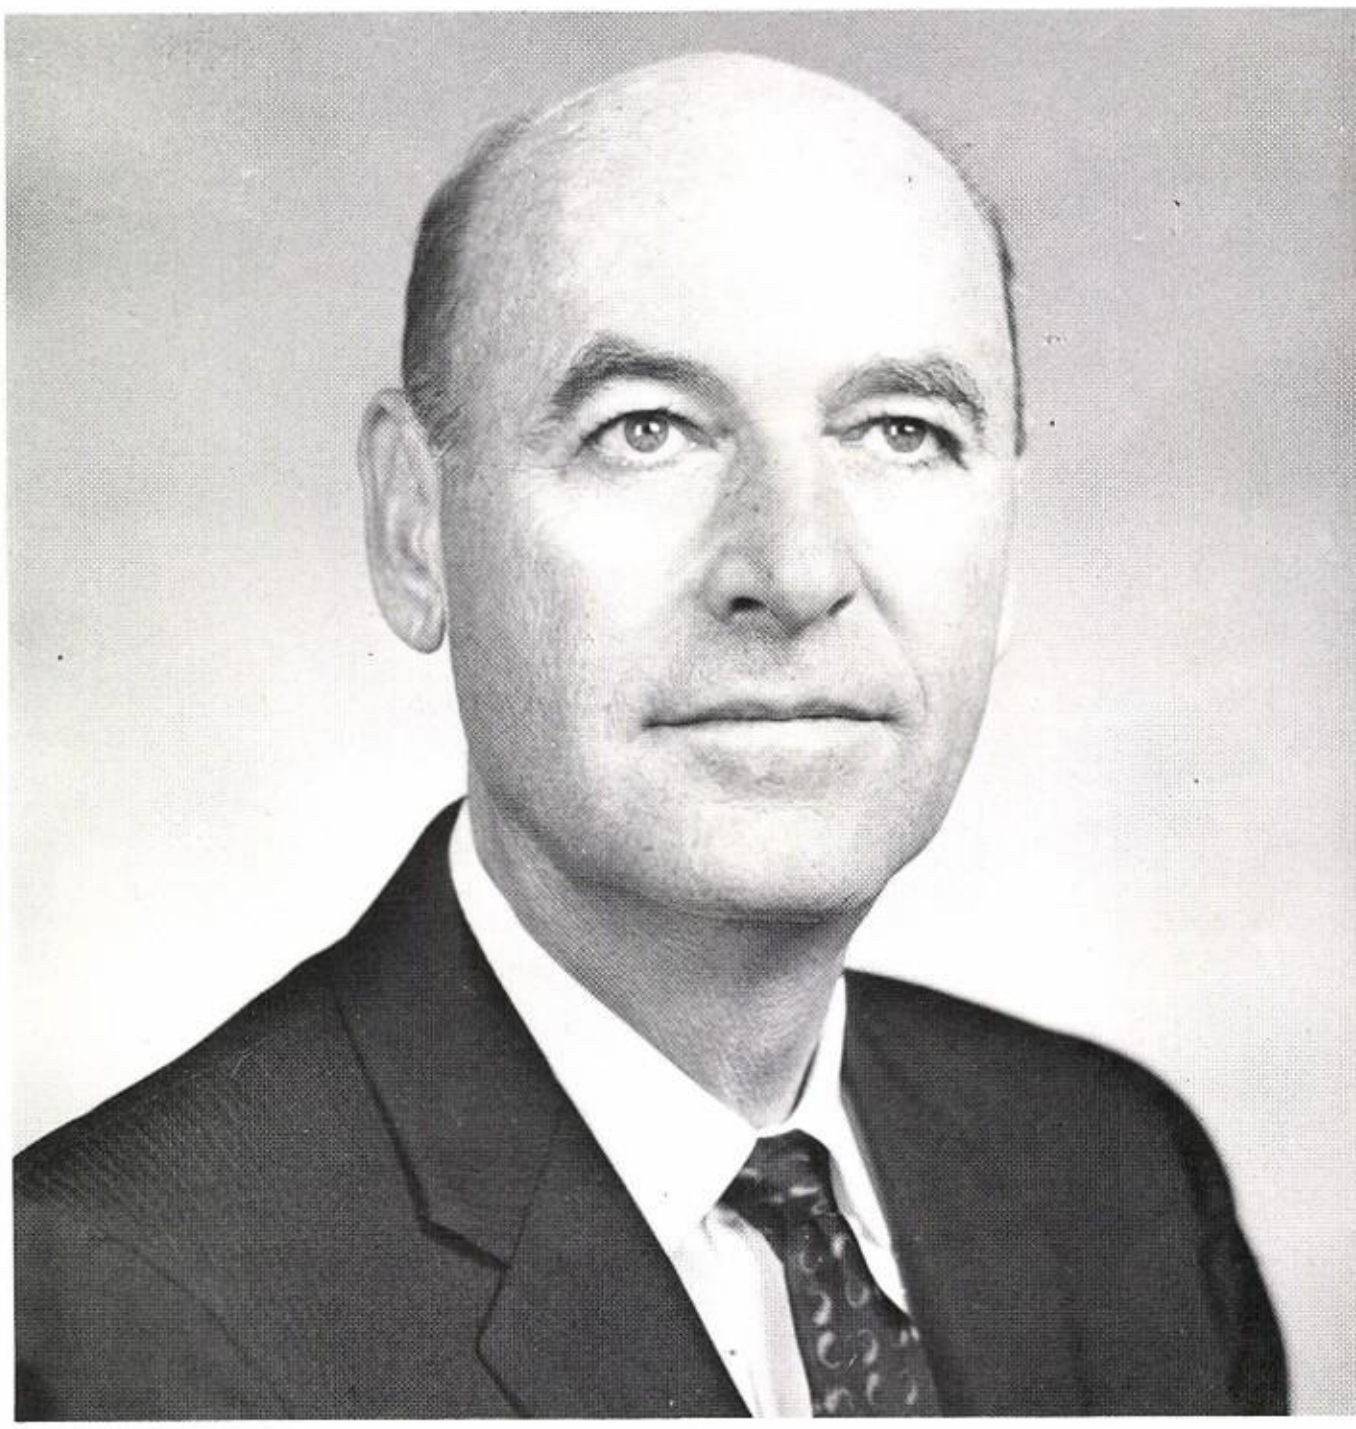
Dr. Paul Fair, Deputy Superintendent

Mr. John Fortenberry, Assistant Superintendent of Instruction

Dr. Don R. Roberts, Assistant Superintendent of Research and Pupil Personnel

Mr. Floyd Langston, Assistant Superintendent of Finance

Mr. William H. Fowler, Assistant Superintendent of Personnel



Mr. Floyd W. Parsons, (above) is now completing his tenth year as superintendent of schools for the Little Rock District. Mr. Parsons, with Deputy Superintendent Dr. Paul Fair, and the assistant superintendents keep the school system running smoothly.

Mr. Daniel H. Woods, President

Mr. William R. Meeks

Dr. Bert O. Miller

Mr. T. E. Patterson

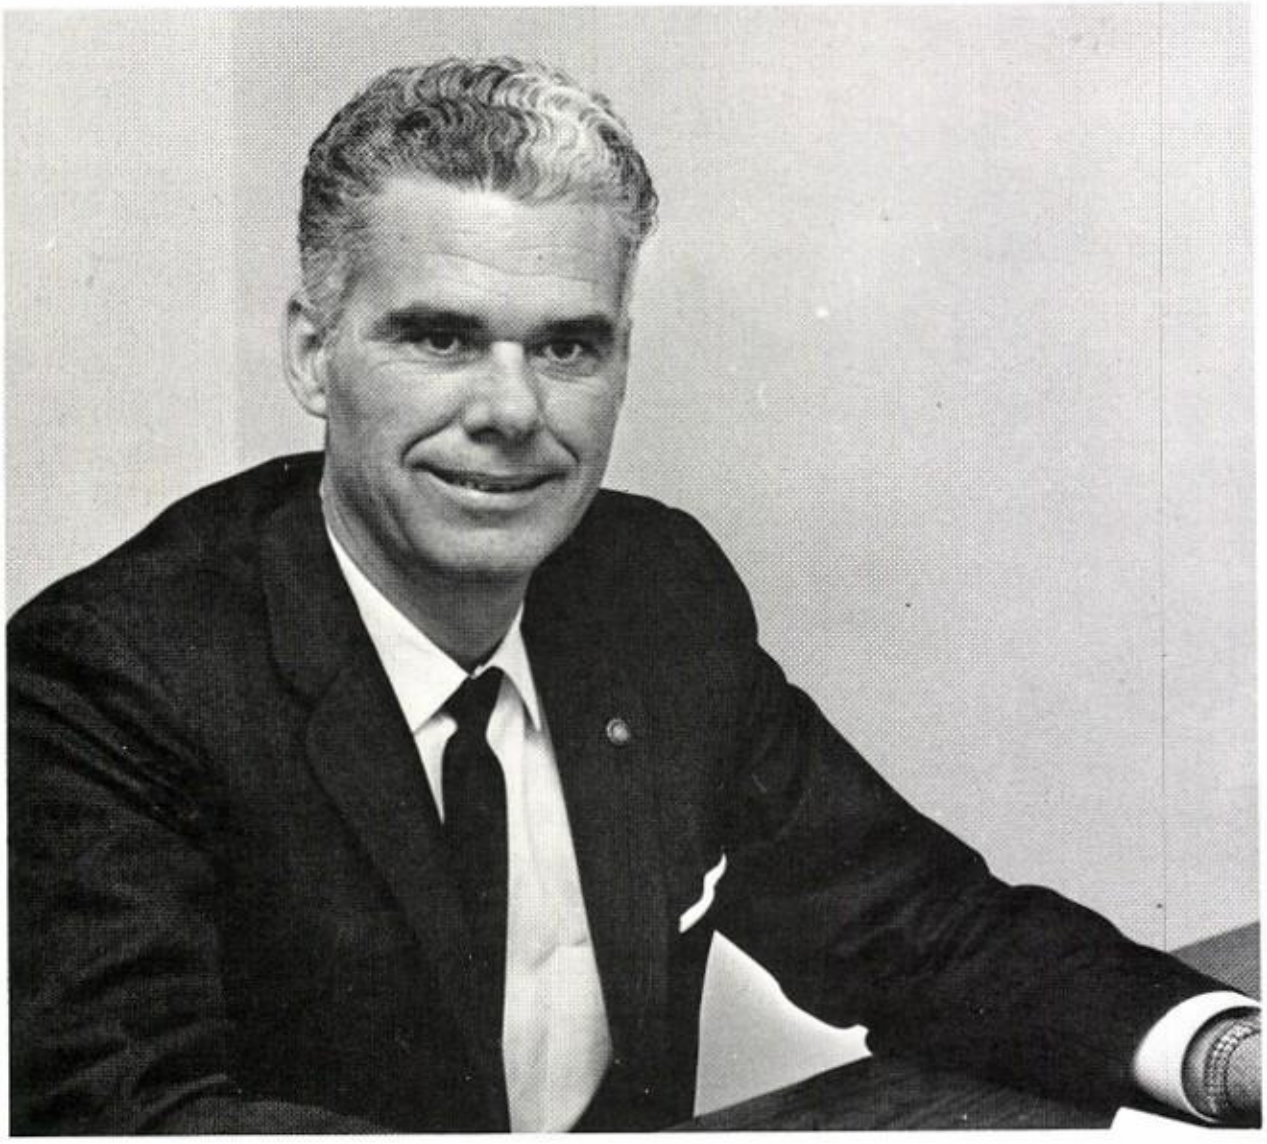
School Board Sets the Pace

The "School Board" functions for the benefit of all who attend school, whether a teacher, student, or custodian.

Approval of plans for new buildings, salary schedules, the length of school year, and finances are a few of the many duties of the "Board."

They strive to set policies that should be easy to follow by both students and teachers, and fair to all.

Industrial Education Staff Recognized. . .



Mr. Ernest Rush, Director

Mrs. Emmalean Still,
Vocational Secretary

Mrs. Peggy Poteet,
Vocational Secretary

Mr. Walter F. Sawrie, Supervisor, Industrial Education Department

Mrs. Ruth Steele, Director of the Communicative Skills Project

The Industrial Education Department introduces the new vocational programs and tries to keep them running smoothly and the student body well adjusted to them. All the vocational programs financed through federal and state sponsorship are supervised by this department.

Mr. Raymond Dow

Student Co-op Program Keep Directors On-the-Go

Mrs. Nadine Marcum

Mr. Bob Wright

The senior students under the co-op program have on-the-job training and are placed on jobs in the afternoons. The co-op students' conduct and the way they perform their jobs reflects on Metropolitan and will determine the success and future of this educational program.

They work a minimum of 15 hours a week and receive a hourly rate of pay. Approximately 90 seniors are employed through the cooperative work-training program.

BELOW: Mrs. Marcum has a discussion with her COE students.

Mr. Leonard Thalmueller, Principal

Mrs. Jane Moffitt
Principal's Secretary

Thalmueller Returns Principal Again

Mr. Leonard Thallmueller has returned to Metropolitan after a one year leave of absence for advanced study. "I feel that being principal of Metropolitan High School is the best principal's job in the state. The greatest part about being principal, is to watch the sophomores mature as they progress to seniors."

Mrs. Jane H. Moffitt is Mr. Thallmueller's secretary.

Students enjoy working in the office.

Mrs. Betty Hendricks,
Attendance Secretary

Mrs. Carolyn Newton,
School Registar

Office Staff A Necessity To School!

Attendance of students, schedule changes, accounting and bookkeeping of all school funds and activities are just a few of the duties of the office staff. Office monitors help the secretaries and the vice-principal.

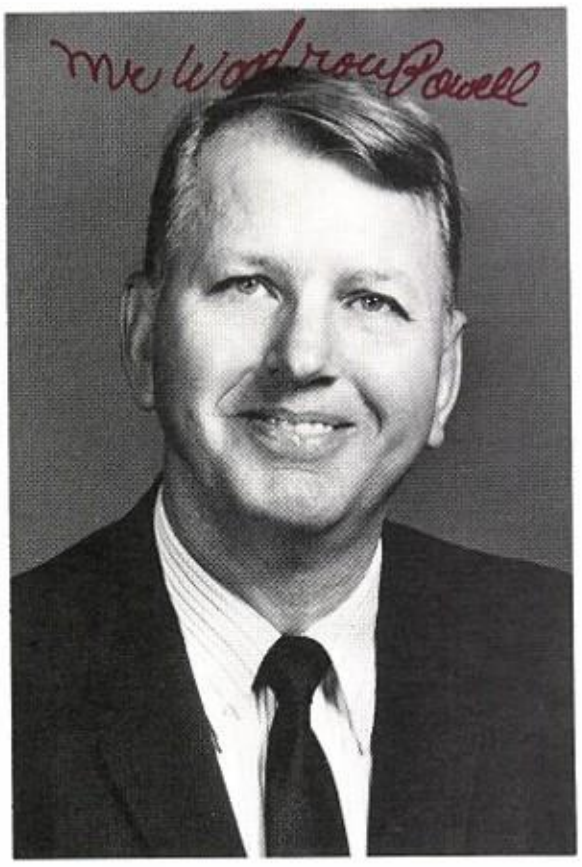
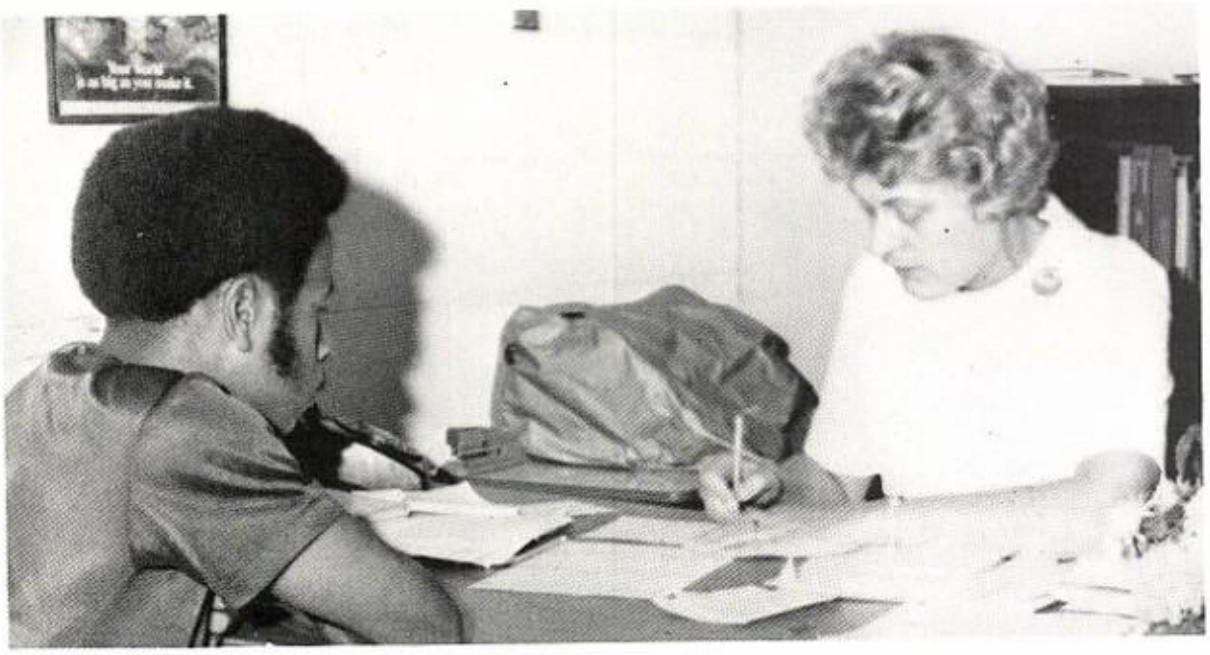
Walker and Powell Help Students With Their Problems

Miss Elizabeth
Walker, Counselor



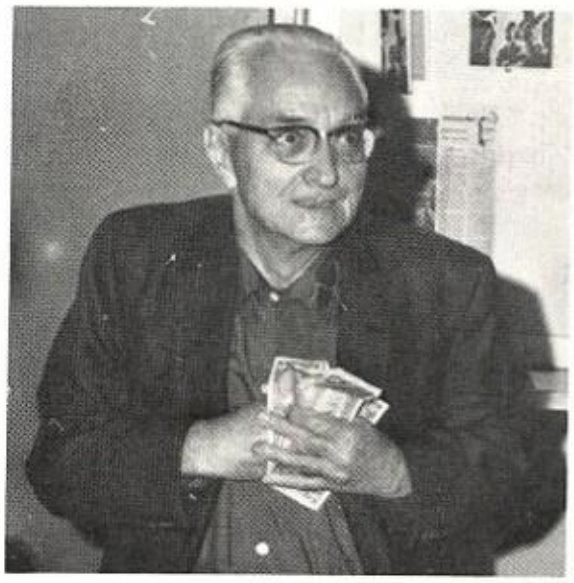
Mr. Woodrow Powell
Counselor

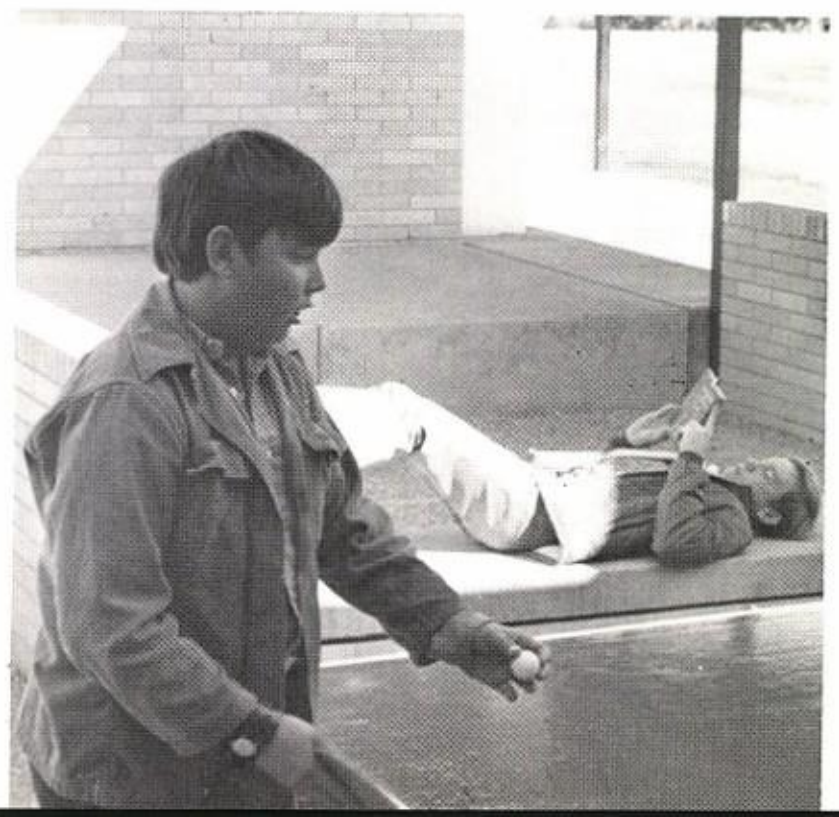


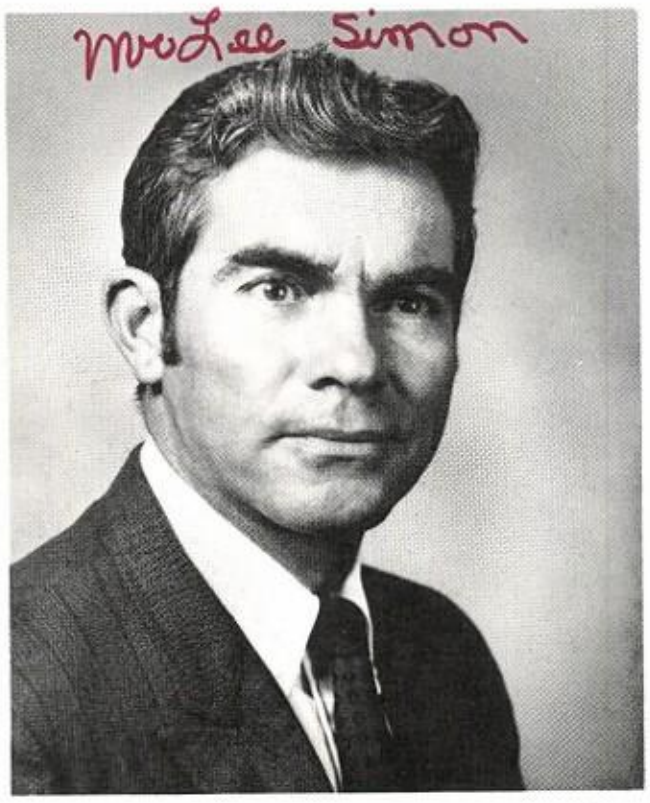
Miss Walker helps John Dyer fill out his program card.

Mr. Powell talks to David Brown about his class schedule.

Miss Elizabeth Walker and Mr. Woodrow Powell, our guidance counselors, help students choose their subjects and schedule college entrance exams. They try to help students with educational problems as well as with personal problems. When they are not able to find a quick solution to a problem they try to point out the advantage and disadvantage of the complications the student is having, then they usually make their own decisions.







Mr. Lee Simon Instructor

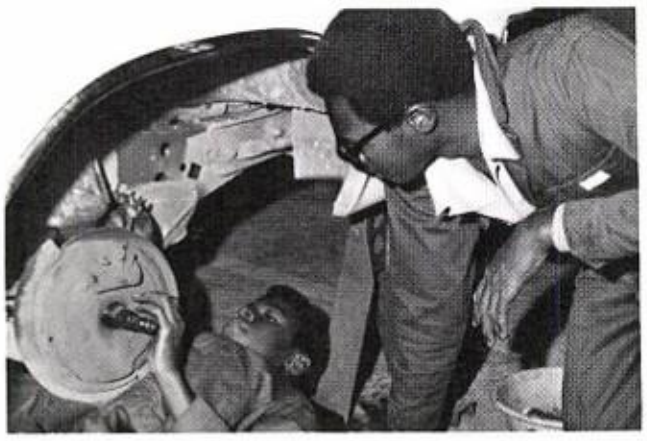
Mr. Harvey Johnson, Instructor

Mr. Gene Rush, Instructor

Rush and Johnson Train Students for Mechanic Jobs

"In auto mechanics, the basic fundamentals of electricity including the starting of the engine, and the complete electrical system are taught. The student also learns how to rebuild engines and align the front end of a car. Specialized motor testing equipment is available and students learn to diagnose auto motor problems and make the proper corrections. Demonstrating motors are available for practice. Senior Auto boys work on line cars."

Mr. Johnson demonstrates to the class a battery test.



Juniors: Joe Brown and Billy Todd, remove a wheel cylinder.

Senior: Donnie Causey removes the grease off the spindle in order to clean it.

Mr. Johnson assists Chris Buie.

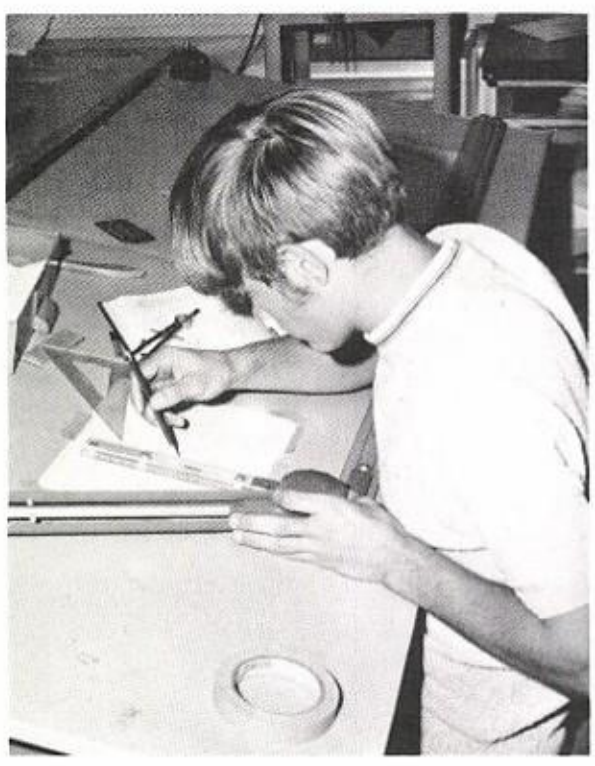
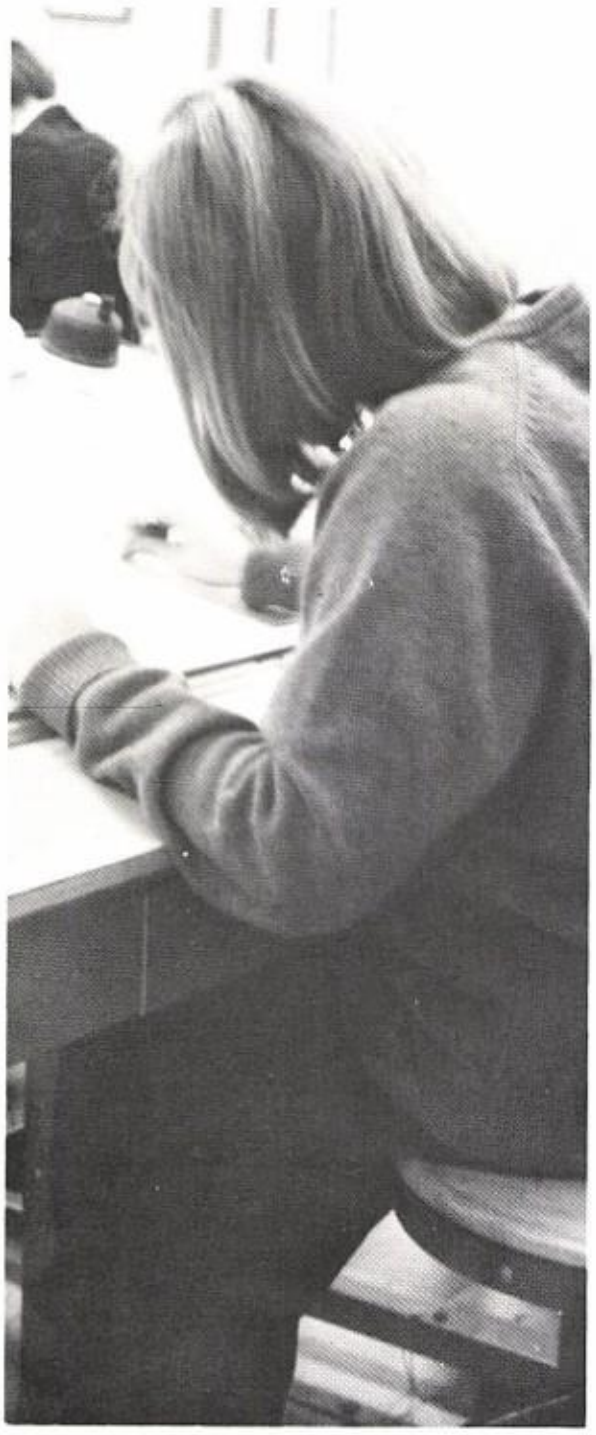
Mr. Dillahunty answers a question which puzzles Wayne Rogers.

Mr. Jimmy Jones,
Instructor



Clyde Smith works on his drafting assignment.

"We rotate through several different areas in drafting. They are: electrical, mechanical, structural, and architectural. In drafting a drafting machine or parallel bars, may be used. Students are given a choice between which of these they would like to use. Blueprint machines are also used. The students work with triangles, compasses, templates, and scales. They develop plans for houses, and views of different objects and buildings. Projects that they work on will demand considerable detail.



Pam Knabe works busily on her assignment.

Corkey Gaylor and James Johnson work together.

Macy Butler works on his blueprint.

Technicians Find Their Skill Is Of Great Importance

Larry Duran and Tommy Singleton test an amplifier system.

In Electronics the basic fundamentals of electricity, applied math, television and other subjects related to electronics are taught. The students learn to be well equipped electronics technicians and not just ordinary radio and television repairmen. Testing meters, the oscilloschope, signal generators, soldering guns, and laboratory operating models of television sets are used in instruction.

Students are kept busy in the Electronics Lab all the time.

FOOD SERVICE

Opportunities Open For Students Who Take Food Service

Food Service has undergone changes in the past few years. The students need to know about the various kinds of food establishments in operation today. They need to know public eating habits and the preparation of foods. The practice of manners, health habits, proper dress, speech, and safety are also important in food service. The students learn to operate the chopping machines, streamers, slicers, various mixers, and the dishwasher. They are taught to cook on the grill and range. Baking is done in the ovens and fried foods are cooked in the deep-fat fryer.

Health Vocation Offers Promising Future. . .

Mrs. Gillette Breshears,
Instructor

Mrs. Charlotte Hicks,
Instructor

Health Occupations is offered at Metropolitan for girls who are seeking a promising career in the health field. The course is available to juniors and seniors.

The junior students in health occupations are taught basic body structure and its functions, medical terminology and comprehensive nursing care. The senior course of study includes basic nursing procedures and applications, human behavior and interpersonal relations. The seniors are placed in doctor's offices, dentist's offices, hospitals, and as nurse's aides in the afternoons for actual work experience.

Mrs. Breshears lectures her junior class on the health habits of today.

Mrs. Hick's health program class works on the problems assigned to them.

Dear Lynn:

We at KARK are very proud of the youth in our community. Thank you for the opportunity of working with the student body in this manner again this year. I appreciate the honor you have given me.

The task of choosing a "Beau" for Metropolitan High proved to be a very difficult one. All the young men make a very impressive appearance, and I am sure that they have all made a very definite contribution to their school. After careful consideration, I have chosen Mr. Milo Deering. Once again, it was a most difficult decision.

I want to wish Mr. Deering, you and all the students at Metropolitan High the very best.

Kindest regards,

Marie Underwood

Dear Miss Roten:

There's a certain phrase that no matter how often it is used it is very seldom considered trite. This is due mainly due to its sincerity, or rather the sincerity of the person using it, and I must say it fits the situation for me right now. It is not every day that I am given the opportunity to judge a contest of any type. For this reason I consider it "an honor, a privilege, and a pleasure" having been chosen to select the "Black Beau" for your yearbook. I might add that it was not an easy decision and in my opinion all five of the young men whose pictures were submitted are deserving of the honor. However, since only one could be chosen, I selected Alvin Johnson.

One note to the seniors: The United States Census Bureau recently released a report showing that the youth of today are more apt to get a more extensive education than young people did ten years ago. The bureau also noted that college enrollments have climbed along with high school graduations, as a result the U. S. has a more informed group of young people. I trust that with your graduation this year you will help maintain this trend.

Again, thank you for giving me this honor and best wishes to you graduating seniors as you enter another phase of life.

Love, peace, and happiness forever

Mary Donald

From the Editor. . .

This year has been the busiest year of my life. It has been a memorable experience putting the '71' Image together, and even though this book is yours, I feel that part of me is in each page.

The Image '71' would not be possible if it were not for my instructor, Mr. Fred Graham. Mr. Graham has roughed this year out with worries about deadlines, pictures, selling ads, division pages and many more. He has helped me stick with it and search for ideas when there were no more to be found. And if worst came to worst he usually had an idea himself.

I want to take this opportunity to thank some of the people who have been a tremendous help to me this year.

Everyone in Journalism has sold advertising space, but special recognition goes to Mrs. Crawley's senior business class for taking time to sell advertising.

I want to thank Sharon Henry, assistant editor, for all she has done. Sharon wrote the theme and did all the layout for the classes. When I was running low on ideas, Sharon always had one, which usually turned out to be a good one.

I want to thank Mr. Doyle Dillahunty, for letting James Johnson work on designing the cover during class time. Helping James to think up this idea was Jabo Perry and Corkey Gaylor, and Steve Prater.

Roseann Larch compiled all the copy for the Administrators and Activities sections. I don't know what I would have done without her cooperation, she did an excellent job and deserves recognition.

There are so many people who deserve thanks, I could not possibly thank them all individually. Everyone has worked hard this year and I wish to thank you all.

As I look back through the days and months it took to produce this book, I feel sadness that these days are over. A great many good things have happened to me this year, and it has been a challenge and has given me pleasure in producing The Image '71.'

I hope in later years you can look back through this book and laugh at the good times, cry at the sad times, but most of all remember these times.

Peace and Happiness,
Lynn Roten
